

Safety Stars Recognition Program

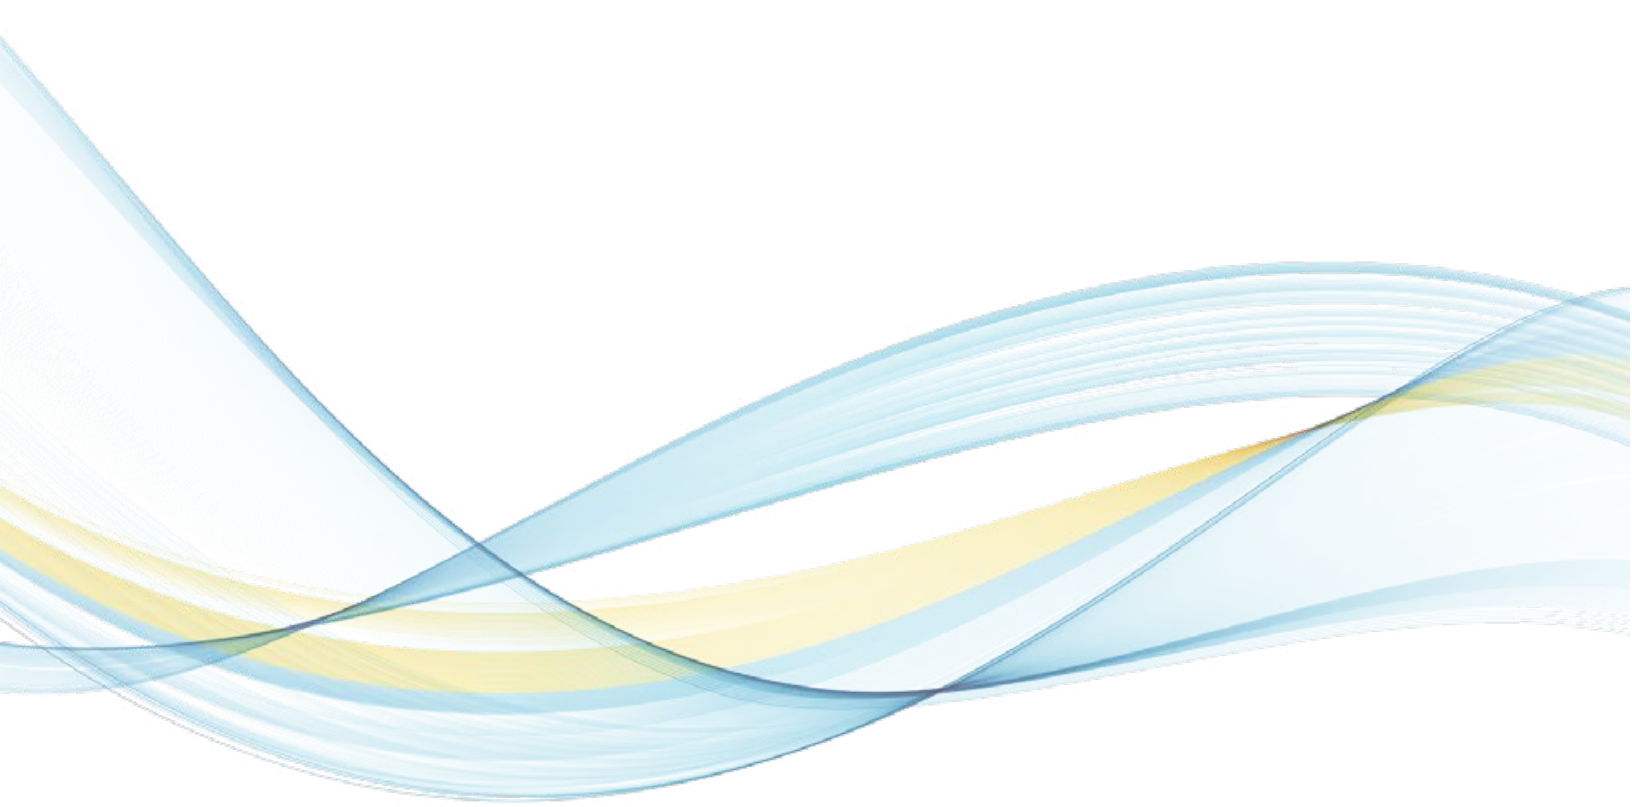

The Public Service Commission, Employee Wellness & Safety team want to recognize individuals, teams, and committees who are making a positive impact in their workplace(s) by being a safety leader, in promoting and improving occupational health and safety.

An easy-to-use electronic form has been created for Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) Committee members and safety representative to nominate a “Safety Star.” These nominations should highlight the great work being done by someone in your workplace(s).

We encourage OHS Committees to include “Safety Star” nominations as a regular agenda item in your meetings. This is a great opportunity to share and celebrate safety efforts in your workplace. Anyone in the workplace can suggest a nominee to their committee member they feel deserves recognition. The OHS committee member or safety representative can then submit the nomination using the link below.

The Employee Wellness & Safety team will review all submissions. If selected, the Employee Wellness & Safety team will contact the nominator and nominee to get permission to feature the nominee in an upcoming newsletter. Sharing these stories helps others learn from successful safety initiatives and encourages similar efforts across workplaces.

In addition, nominees may be considered for the Douglas MacMaster Memorial Occupational Health and Safety Award, which is presented annually during Public Service Week. This award celebrates outstanding contributions to workplace health and safety by government employees. More details about the award nomination process will be shared in future newsletters.
